- Coaches should run a 60 minute practice that includes:
  - Warm-up with ball
  - Several skill development drills
  - A game-play drill
  - A short-sided 4v4 game
  - CV conditioning exercise
- What we do in practice we do when we play.

Tournament Basics

- Teams must arrive at the tournament site at least 1 hour before the start of each game.
- Coaches should warm-up their players and review key playing concepts prior to the game.
- Don't make it complicated... players can only really focus on 2-3 concepts.
- Between games, players should stay in the shade, eat a light lunch, stay in a comfortable environment, read a book.
- Get 3 copies of every player's birth certificate and 4 copies of the signed medical release forms. Create three notebooks with plastic sleeves. Put the birth certificate and medical releases for each player in a plastic sleeve, birth certificate on one side, medical release form on the other.
- Put them in order based on uniform number.

Tournament Basics

- Prepare ID cards for every player using the AYSO 76 website. By filling out the form and adding a headshot you will shoot. Get these laminated at Fedex store or Staples. Carry these with you by putting them in the plastic sleeve with the medical release and birth certificate.
- Your team is expected to provide a referee team.
- Your referee team must checkin 30 minutes prior to their games, and be polite to all tournament officials.
- You cannot blow off referee assignments under any circumstances. EVER.

How to Apply to Tournaments

- Most tournaments will let you know if your team has been accepted to play approx. 6 weeks in advance of the tournament date.
- They may let you know that you haven't been accepted, and ask if you want to be put on a waiting list.
  - If you say "yes" to this, they will keep your checks until after the tournament date, whether or not you play in their tournament.
  - If you say "no" to this, then they will return your checks to you (usually) immediately and you can use this money to apply to other tournaments.
- Some tournaments will keep your referee deposit, if your refs show up late to check-in, or if they are not properly uniformed, or if you need to substitute someone on your ref team.
- ALWAYS have your paperwork organized, be on-time and treat tournament organizers and officials with courtesy and respect.

Managing your Team @ Tournaments

- Find out your team will play in a tournament – 4- 6 weeks in advance.
- Find out what teams are in your flight – 2-4 weeks in advance.
- Find out your game schedule – 1-2 weeks in advance.
- Find out your ref schedule – 1 week in advance.

Managing your Team @ Tournaments

- Referee stuff:
  - Check-in at the Ref tent 30 minutes before your scheduled game.
  - Check-in the teams for the game you are reffing 15 minutes before game time.
  - Be sure to be wearing proper uniform, soccer shoes, badge.
  - Keep all receipts that prove you reffed the games you reffed.
  - Sign the back of all cards LEGIBLY with name, region, team ID.
  - If the tournament claims your referee team failed to ref their assigned games, you need to have the proof that they did.
  - Be aware that sometimes your ref team may need to ref a game that is scheduled 2-3 hours after your last game ends.

Managing your Team @ Tournaments

- At each tournament, be sure to be kind and friendly to all tournament officials. You are representing our region, not just your team.
- Game Schedule:
  - You will have games that begin at 8am
    - Your team will need to get there at 7am
    - You may need to leave home to get to the field at 6am
  - Your players must arrive one hour prior to game time, no matter when this is. You need to explain this to parents at your parent meeting.
  - The Riverside Locomotion tournament may involve staying at a hotel in Riverside. Ask parents what they'd like to do. Kids love it. Santa Barbara Splash tournament – same thing.
  - TOURNAMENT GAME SCHEDULES CANNOT BE CHANGED – DON'T COMPLAIN ABOUT IT, AND DON'T REQUEST CHANGES.

Managing your Team @ Tournaments

- Create a Tournament Package....
  - One sheet that includes a map and directions to the fields
  - The game schedule and field assignments
  - The referee game schedule, times, fields
  - Jersey color to be worn each game
  - Show up times for each game
  - Phone and email of the coaches and team administrator
  - Links to the tournament website game schedule page and field maps.
- This can be printed out and passed out at your practice before the tournament.
- This can be saved as a PDF and emailed to every parent.

Managing Families

- Managing parents is as much a part of post-season coaching as is coaching the team.
- Without full parent support, some of your players will not show up for tournaments and practices, or will arrive late.
- Here are several things you can do to maintain strong parent buy-in:
  - Send an email wrap-up after each tournament
    - Focus on the positive aspects of the tournament
    - Mention some small, precious moments for the players (take notes of these during each day). Say one good thing about each player.
    - If you don't mention some players in your email, then be sure to follow it up with a brief talk about the progress their son/daughter is making when you see them at the field.
  - Let the parents know that you are there for every player, including their son/daughter, and that you are grateful to each parent for their commitment to the team.
  - Give every parent a job – tent, water, photography, snacks, website, etc.

Our Expectations for Coaches

- Though winning is fun, your mission is not to win at all costs.
- Your mission is to enable personal growth and team development... and to provide a fun experience for your players and families.
- If you are short a player for a tournament, you can call the coach of another post-season team and ask him if you can invite one of his players to play with your team. Do NOT call the parents directly. Call the player's coach.
- Do not play "Guest Players" more than your own players – your team will notice this and remember that you did this.
- Never single out any player in front of the team for any perceived mistake. Use the word "we" often. Critique the "team's performance," not "individual performance" when talking to the team.

Our Expectations for Coaches

- Talk to players one-on-one to discuss individual mistakes they made or things they should work on
- Treat your players with respect – always!
- Do not yell.
- Do not yell at your players
- Do not yell at referee
- Do not yell at parents or other coaches
- Do not try to be entertaining
- Control your anger at all times
- You represent our region, wherever you are
- Your actions reflect on you and our region
- Assume that everything you say and do is in the presence of our RC.
